Instead of starting in the spring, as does the liturgical calendar, the list of months follows the civil calendar and begins in the fall. She had worked without stopping gathering the gleanings left by Boaz's workers. According to the Law, the poor had the right to pick up any stalks that the reapers had dropped, but what limitation does Ruth place on her gleaning in verse 7?

For instance, when Ruth first speaks with Boaz in his field, the words she uses are: "I have found refuge under your wings, O Boaz." The author pulls from her masters degree and love in history to recreate scenarios that put the reader in the culture and times of the real characters in the story.
