Years Black August, the observation of Black August began when prisoners started wearing black arm bands, and studying Black historical events to honor the fallen in the Marin County incident, the Soledad Brothers, and all who had been unjustly incarcerated or killed in prison. The month of August is linked to many important Black August defining moments in the liberation struggle of Africans in the United States and elsewhere in the Americas. In the same vein, there has been a corresponding expansion of the repressive policing, judicial and imprisonment capacity of the state.
